The Bullying Training offers four modules to fully address the different aspects of this complex issue. These are:

- The School: How to institute a bullying program.
- The Victim: How to handle being bullied.
- The Bully: Identifying the unmet needs of the bully.
- The Parent: Signs that your child is being bullied.

Mission Statement

KeysToSaferSchools.com is dedicated to helping schools and youth oriented organizations detect violence, establish prevention strategies and develop effective plans for dealing with violence. Keys relies heavily on National Violence Research in the development of its' services. Keys dedicates itself to assisting organizations in enhancing their student and staff safety through training, information and materials.

Services Include:

Assessing the Potentially Dangerous Student (PDS)

The training will certify individuals to use a Nationally Researched one-page Assessment Tool which will help them determine the difference between a prankster and a PDS. The training examines:

- why we miss these PDS,
- how we can identify them, and
- what resources are available to get them the help they need.

Bullying Stops When Respect Begins

The Bullying Training offers four modules to fully address the different aspects of this complex issue. These are:

- The School: How to institute a bullying program.
- The Victim: How to handle being bullied.
- The Bully: Identifying the unmet needs of the bully.
- The Parent: Signs that your child is being bullied.

Anger Management & De-escalation Training

This teaches how to recognize anger and de-escalate volatile situations in the classroom. It provides physical and non-physical means to stop or break up a fight with minimal risk to all involved.

Crisis Action Training & Workshop

This workshop produces a Crisis Action/Response Plan for the school district and Site Specific Crisis Plan for each school. Community agencies and school personnel are brought together for collaboration and coordination in the development of these critical plans. Both a printed version and an electronic copy of the final plan are presented to the school.
